

Description

To build a team is to create a collaborative work culture. In a team environment, both management and employees believe that thinking, planning, and decision-making work better when everyone works together. Experts believe that tasks and rewards that are shared lead to group success.

Objectives

After your training program, the trainees should be able to:

- Define a team culture
- Understand the stages of teams
- Understand the difference between traditional organizations and team cultures

Audience

This training is designed for all employees to help them understand both the value of teamwork and their place in a team environment.

Requirements

There are no regulatory requirements